

Roman Baths

Definitely worth seeing because of 2000-year-old architecture (they are the best-preserved baths in Northern Europe).

Main attractions: temple of Sulis Minerva, Goddess of the Thermal Spring; bath house.

Maybe a bit expensive but you can spend your whole day at the baths!

Admission for students £8.75 but it is possible to buy a “Saver Ticket” (£13.50) which is valid for both Roman Baths and Fashion Museum.

Fashion Museum

The collection of the museum includes examples of menswear, womenswear, accessories, jackets, shirts and much more.

The earliest pieces in the collection are from about 1600!

Gives a nice overview about clothes, especially from the Jane Austen times.

Again: quite expensive...

Admission for students £6.75. Saver Ticket £13.50.

Theatre Royal

Very nice theatre; interior furnished in red, white and golden colours.

The play “The Importance of Being Earnest” by Oscar Wilde was really funny and enjoyable!

Price depends on time and seats; we had a group discount and paid about £15.00.

Jazz Café

Sounded very promising: glorified café but the coffee wasn't that special...

Nevertheless, it is quite cosy and has a nice atmosphere!

Pig&Fiddle

Nice, cosy pub; beer garden, great offer of beer, special tip from a native

Hobgoblin

Some people seem to have problems pronouncing it correctly... ☺

However, it's a great little pub; pretty dark, rock music, sometimes special evenings with Punk or Ska. Two special sorts of Bath ales (Bewitched & Hobgoblin) and a special cider: Green Goblin.

If you like wearing black clothes that's the perfect place to go to meet charming natives!

Flan O'Brians

Small nice pub for an evening beer

The Garrick's Head

Very small pub, nice people. It's perfect to go there after a theatre visit!

Bath – Guided Tour with Roger!

You should really go on this entertaining walk; it takes two hours and it's for free!

“Comedy”Walk/Ghost Walk

We didn't hear anything positive about the “Comedy” walk, but the Ghost Walk turned out to be scary...
